Digitally Supported Measurement Tools for Researchers

The Measures Library. The Measures Library provides information on measures (published and researcher-created) and measurement procedures being used in language intervention research. This library includes the resources describing and needed for using a measure in language intervention research, for example, the codebooks and reliability procedures used for observational measures, and well as other outcomes as child and parent interactions, parent attachment, standardized tests, parent ratings/reports, intervention fidelity, and satisfaction with an intervention. These are other suggested measurement topics that we are recruiting content for:

1. Home language environment and adult-child communication patterns (LENA)
2. Adult-child interaction observational measures (i.e., codebooks; training, and reliability procedures)
3. Parent attachment
4. Child language growth and development measures
  - a. Direct observation
  - b. Child language samples
  - c. Parent ratings/reports
5. Standardized tests
6. Intervention fidelity
7. Satisfaction with an intervention
